

Jason Brown is a partner in Cohen & Gresser's New York office. His practice focuses on white collar criminal and complex civil litigation, and he has extensive experience in matters relating to securities fraud, government contract fraud, antitrust, employment discrimination, and privacy and data security.

Prior to joining the firm, Jason served as Chief Deputy of the New York State Attorney General's Office, where his responsibilities included overseeing the office's criminal division. He also spent nearly a decade in the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of New York, where he served, among other positions, as Chief of the Criminal Division. He was previously a partner at Ropes & Gray, and the managing partner of the New York office of Holland & Knight.

Jason has been recognized by The Legal 500's U.S. guide in its coverage for corporate investigations and white collar criminal defense. He has also been recognized by The Best Lawyers in America for white collar criminal defense and is regularly named as one of New York's Super Lawyers.

Jason is a cum laude graduate of Harvard Law School and received his undergraduate degree in philosophy from Princeton University.

Jason Brown
Partner, New York

+1 212 957 7609
jbrown@cohengresser.com

Practice Areas

White Collar Defense and Regulation, Criminal Defense, FCPA/Anti-Corruption, Internal Investigations, Regulatory Enforcement, Litigation and Arbitration, Class Action Defense, Commercial Litigation, Securities Litigation, Aviation Litigation, Privacy and Data Security, Antitrust and Competition Litigation, U.S. Employment Investigations, Antitrust and Competition, Antitrust and Competition Regulatory and Enforcement

Education

Harvard Law School (J.D., cum laude, 1985); Princeton University (A.B., 1981)

Bar Admissions

New York State