Cohen & Gresser Expands Corporate and M&A Practice in London

Cohen & Gresser announces the expansion of its corporate group with the appointment of Daniel H. Mathias as a senior associate in the firm's London office.

Daniel has extensive experience advising on sophisticated cross-border transactions for U.S. and international clients, including private equity firms, family offices, and other alternative asset managers. He has advised investors and businesses in the healthcare, technology, industrial, and consumer sectors, among others.

"I am delighted to welcome Daniel to Cohen & Gresser," said Jeffrey M. Bronheim, Managing Partner of the firm's London office. "Daniel's experience with complex, cross-border transactions will be integral to our representation of private equity firms, family offices, and other alternative asset managers around the world."

Prior to joining C&G, Daniel practiced at McDermott Will & Emery in its London office. He began his career at Latham & Watkins, and has significant international experience, having worked in London, Hong Kong, Los Angeles, and Washington, D.C.

"I am extremely pleased to join C&G's rapidly expanding global corporate practice," said Daniel. "I look forward to growing its cross-border transactional offering alongside exceptional colleagues in the U.S. and Europe."

About C&G's Corporate Group:

Operating from our offices in New York, Paris, Seoul, and London, Cohen & Gresser assists clients in a wide range of domestic and cross-border corporate representations, including mergers and acquisitions, capital raising, fund formation, corporate governance, and regulatory compliance. We have extensive experience representing public and private companies, private equity, venture capital and hedge funds and their managers, sovereigns, family offices, and investment banks. We have particular experience in emerging markets, including Africa. Our clients are involved in financial services, infrastructure, renewables, energy, healthcare, consumer products, technology, manufacturing, real property, and restaurants, among others. We also serve as outside general counsel to a number of privately held companies.
