Alexandra K. Theobald is an associate in Cohen & Gresser's New York office. Her practice focuses on commercial litigation and white collar defense.

Alexandra has experience representing clients in a broad range of matters involving securities law, antitrust, and intellectual property law. Her notable work includes serving on the team that represented Samuel Bankman-Fried, the former CEO of FTX, from his arrest through trial, navigating complex fraud charges, expedited proceedings, and vast amounts of evidence. She also represented a French national in a DOJ investigation into alleged tax fraud involving a trust, advising on criminal risks and defense strategy across the U.S. and UK. She has argued in both state and federal courts, and the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.

Alexandra has been recognized by Best Lawyers in America: Ones to Watch for commercial litigation and corporate law, and by Super Lawyers as a Rising Star for business litigation.

Prior to joining the firm, Alexandra was an associate at Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton.

Alexandra is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania Law School. She is also a cum laude graduate of Georgetown University, where she received her B.S.F.S. in International Economics.

Alexandra is fluent in German and proficient in Italian and French.
